

TLAC Changes Spring 2016

Job Seekers

During job seeker registration in Job Center of Wisconsin, the job seeker can self-identify as American Indian or Alaskan Native. When that choice is made, two additional fields appear.

The screenshot shows a registration progress bar with five steps: 1. Verification, 2. Contact, 3. Status, 4. Profile (highlighted in orange), and 5. Confirmation. Below the progress bar, a message states: "To Search Jobs or Create a Resume you must register." A red callout box points to the "American Indian or Alaskan Native" radio button, containing the text: "When this choice is checked, the Tribe and Tribal ID #/Descendant fields are displayed." The form includes the following fields:

If the job seeker registered in the past and now wants to add his Tribal affiliation and/or Tribal ID, or if he wants to change it, he can do so by logging in on JobCenterofWisconsin.com and clicking on the My account link. The job seeker must have self-identified as Native American when he originally registered.

The job seeker enters his birthdate and clicks on the Verify button.

The Tribe and Tribal ID #/Descendant fields will appear at the bottom of the screen, as long as the job seeker self-identified as Native American when he originally registered on the Job Center of Wisconsin website.
